MOUNTAIN OFF-ROAD ENTERPRISES: JASON KAMINSKY SPONSORSHIP ANNOUNCED FOR 2013

Delta, CO – January 22, 2013 – MOUNTAIN OFF-ROAD ENTERPRISES (M.O.R.E.) is proud to announce the official sponsorship of Jason Kaminsky of the Four Corners 4x4 team for the 2013 season, a continuation of the 2012 collaboration between the two.

Working in conjunction with M.O.R.E., the team plans to enter a 2006 Jeep Wrangler Unlimited into competition in the Ultra4 4600 Stock Class, the Dirt Riot 4600 Stock Class, and will also compete in the 2013 King of the Hammers event. Hailing from Durango, Colorado, Four Corners 4x4 owner Kaminsky will head the team as the primary driver while Doug Bigelow of Sharpsburg, Maryland and Richard Jenkins of Farmington, New Mexico will co-drive at the King of the Hammers and Dirt Riot events, respectively.

When Kaminsky, a recreational off-road wheeler for nearly fifteen years, heard that the stock class was starting back up for the 2012 King of Hammers, he decided it was time for something different. With the support of family and friends, Kaminsky followed his dream and started parting-out his YJ Wrangler with fourteen years of rock-rash and memories to build a new rig. The result is a 2006 LJ Jeep Wrangler rock-racer that quickly caught the attention of the off-road community. Team Four Corners 4x4's first season of competition earned the team numerous accolades, multiple podium finishes, and most notably, the respectful eyes of sponsors and fellow competitors.

Both M.O.R.E. and Team Four Corners 4x4 believe that involvement in the local community brings exposure to the sport, ensures the growth and success of this unique form of motorsports, and fosters awareness which is crucial to keeping public lands open for the safe and enjoyable operation of off-road vehicles; this partnership between the two entities will help to promote these ideals and others.

With a wildly successful 2012 season already under his belt, the future looks bright for M.O.R.E., Jason Kaminsky and the Four Corners 4x4 team!
